WHAT'S ON

Jews. In Their Own Words. by Jonathan Freedland. From an idea by Tracy-Ann Oberman.

A social worker. A doctor. A politician. An ex-politician. A refugee.
A novelist. A decorator. A journalist. A Talmudist. An actress. A student.
A researcher. Different lives, but all marked by the same enduring prejudice.

Journalist Jonathan Freedland has created a searing and incisive play, using verbatim interviews to expose the roots and damning legacy of antisemitism in Britain – found in the places where you'd least expect it.

Co-directed by Vicky Featherstone and Audrey Sheffield.

Jews. In Their Own Words. – a theatrical inquiry conducted through words, song...and a dose of English irony.
